A central issue in the debate is the nature of concepts, the internal representations we use to think about the world. The traditional empiricist thesis that concepts are built up f Western philosophy has long been divided between empiricists, who argue that human understanding has its basis in experience, and rationalists, who argue that reason is the source of knowledge.

In his Furnishing the Mind, Jesse Prinz offers us anovel and scienti?cally-informed defence of concept empiricism. Prinz updates the old thesis that nihil est in intellectu quod non fuerit in sensu as a claim about what concepts are and where they come from: "all (human) concepts are copies of perceptual representations" (p. 108).

Furnishing the Mind is a spirited and ingenious defense of concept empiricism. Prinz tackles the philosophical objections head-on and makes superb use of the psychological literature on concept acquisition and categorization. This book will be read with great profit by philosophers and psychologists concerned with the nature of concepts.
